

HUMANITIES 303 / ENGLISH 306

Composition and the Humanities

Humanities 303 is an option, rather than an elective. It may be taken in place of English 306, a course which most degree programs require. Some students place out of E, 306. Such students are not eligible for Humanities 303.

Humanities 303 is a composition course built around a series of readings in the Humanities. The general topics for the readings are

- I. Defining a Self
- II. Human Beings and Society
- III. Discovering a Philosophy
- IV. Great Expectations by Dickens
The novel and the film

Readings:

Baldwin, James. The Fire Next Time
Frost, Robert. Selected Poems
Becker, Ernest. Birth and Death of Meaning
Dickens, Charles. Great Expectations
Voltaire. Candide
Life and Adventures of Lazarillo de Tormes
Sophocles. Antigone
The Little-Brown Handbook